Overview

The Silica Market Update is a bi-annual (twice yearly, appearing in March and September) report updating conditions in the global precipitated silica market. Data provided include year-to-date figures based on the latest quarterly data and full-year forecasts for the current year, with a comparison to the previous year's performance during the same period. Data cover all major countries as well as regional and global totals, and include precipitated silica demand in major markets, including tires, dentifrice, nutrition/health (food, ag, pharma, and cosmetics), and industrial (plastics, battery separators, inks, coatings). The report also includes a pricing update and details on recent and pending expansion projects and updated global capacity by supplier.

Cost: Single issue: US$1,250. Two issues (one year): US$1,950. Contact Notch Consulting at info@notchconsulting.com for details or to order.
